

SEES BRIGHTER DAY FOR TROLLEY LINES

Head of American Electric Railway Association Opens Annual Convention

PUBLIC CO-OPERATING MORE

Special Dispatch to Evening Public Ledger
Atlantic City, Oct. 12.—Brighter and more prosperous days are at hand in the electric railway industry. John H. Pardee, president of the American Railway Association, declared here today at the opening session of that organization's annual convention.

This improved situation is due, he points out, to growing public recognition of certain common-sense principles of operation, lost sight of many times in the rapid development of the industry, which it took the shock of war to restore.

"The industry's misfortunes," he asserted, "have been the result of misapplied policy in conduct by the men who operated it and mistaken policy in its regulation and regulation by public authorities."

Particularly, he said, investors must be assured of proper public regulation of utilities if they are to be induced to invest.

Eighty-eight lines forced to the wall by the American Railway Association, declared that the lines in traction affairs has been reached and better times can now be expected.

He showed that from the beginning of the war until August of this year eighty-eight street railway lines, valued at $79,000,000, had been forced into receivership or been foreclosed.

He declared that the transportation system was essential to their welfare, and accordingly there has been a great change in the opinion of the public regarding all kinds of railways.

Zone systems for trolley lines have been fairly successful in some cities and an almost total failure in others. W. J. Harvie, Auburn, N. Y., said in a report to a committee on collection and registration of fares.

Safety Education Urged
H. B. Flowers, of Baltimore, reporting to a committee appointed to formulate a model safety ordinance, said it should be made a feasible one.

There will be an appreciable diminution of the great toll of life now being taken by vehicular traffic in America's congested highways until public opinion demands and persistent safety education, C. M. Talbert, of St. Louis, chairman of the public safety section of the National Safety Council, warned a joint session of traffic and transport experts, opening the preliminary meetings of the convention.

TO HONOR ROOSEVELT

Committee Named to Plan Celebration on Former President's Birthday
A committee appointed yesterday by Mayor Moore is considering plans for the celebration in this city of the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt on October 27.

Mrs. John Henry Hammond is president of the Women's Roosevelt Memorial Association, which suggested the appointment of the committee. The association, which now has a membership extending to almost every state, suggested that officers of patriotic societies and members of the Pennsylvania branch of the association be included in the committee.

An invitation, it is understood, will be extended to Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt to be present at the celebration. The Mayor requested Franklin Spencer Edmonds to work out the details for a preliminary meeting of the committee.

Deaths of a Day

Dr. Harriet I. Noble
Dr. Harriet I. Noble, formerly head demonstrator of anatomy at the Woman's Medical College in this city, died Sunday at her home, 262 Putnam avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y. Doctor Noble was sixty-one years old and was born in Davenport, Iowa.

She came to this city to study at the Woman's Medical College and afterward became an instructor there, later becoming head demonstrator in anatomy and creator of the college museum. She went from New York to New York where she became well known as an anatomical expert and a specialist in the gynecological department of the Post-Graduate Hospital.

BACKS PENN SPORTS RULE

University Publication Urges Students to Support Provost's Idea

The students of the University of Pennsylvania are urged to support and help carry out the new "Pennman absolute reciprocity rule" with regard to athletes playing on the University teams who have degrees from other institutions.

An editorial in today's Pennsylvaniaian exhorts the student body to support the compromise which gives them the assurance of the purity of Pennsylvania sports which they have been seeking.

The new rule drawn by the provost, declared by the Pennsylvaniaian to be "the most eligible code in effect in the world," provides that no man having a degree from another institution shall play on any Penn team against any other college or university which has a degree from its own.

The practical application is obvious, as in major sports Penn plays no team which does not have the degree rule.

TEACHERS ROUSED BY PAY RISE DELAY

Education Board Finance Committee Hopelessly Split Despite Bonus Report

FACTIONS IN FIERCE TILT

The failure of the finance committee of the Board of Education to find a satisfactory solution of the teachers' salary problem has stirred the teachers to a fighting pitch.

Great bitterness was expressed by both sides in the factional controversy among the teachers as to the method of distributing advances. The olive branch extended by the citizens' committee in the form of a solution that promised to unite both sides was rudely snatched from their hands by the finance committee and the figurative hatchet which was to have been buried now threatens to be buried figuratively in somebody's head.

Need Two-thirds Vote
A two-thirds vote by the board for any plan to provide increases for the teachers is necessary. For months it has been a matter of great difficulty to get two members or a quorum of the fifteen members of the board present at a meeting.

Yesterday's meeting of the finance committee found the six members hopelessly deadlocked on the question of how to distribute the money, and whether to borrow more or use what was in hand. The proposition advanced by Simon Gratz, president of the board, provided for a flat increase of $200 apiece to all teachers and other employees except janitors, engineers and medical inspectors. It also provided for the borrowing of $400,000 from next year's assets.

Becher for $125
Dinner Becher stood for an increase of $125 and an advance of the Dick schedule, which also stands for equalization of teachers' salaries. Votes on both propositions were defeated when the balloting resulted in a tie and the $125 flat bonus agreed on at a secret conference was put before the board with reservations by several members of the committee. Mr. Gratz announced the details of carrying the fight to the board today for his plan.

The advance of the Finegan schedule, asked by the citizens' committee, and agreeable with the bonus to both sides, was ignored by the committee. Following the meeting there was a stormy session, when teachers and principals representing both factions surrounded John Wauwampser, of the board, and pressed their arguments to his attention. Officials of the board joined in and the argument became so hot that personalities were indulged in.

Wants Teachers to Vote
Miss Margaret Maguire, principal of the McCall School, and a prominent member of the Allied Teachers Council, asked for a ballot by all the teachers of the city to determine just what they wanted. Edward Merchant, assistant secretary of the board, said he would consent to this if the balloting could be held at the headquarters of the board in the Keystone Building, Nineteenth and Ludlow streets.

A meeting of the teachers was held this morning, when a plan of action for this afternoon's meeting of the board was discussed. The Women Teachers' Organization said they would hold a meeting on Thursday evening, when they would also outline a course of action on the question.

Oak Lane Improvement Body Meets
Edwin A. Abbott was renominated for the presidency of the Oak Lane Improvement Association at the monthly meeting in the Reform Church, Seventh and Sixty-sixth avenues. An address was made by William S. Nash, president of the United Business Men's Association.

DR. SPENCER SAYS MAYOR BACKED HIM

Denies Resignation Was Forced by Friction With Preston Over Drug Crusade

HITS AT POLITICIANS

Dr. S. Blair Spencer, retiring physician-in-chief of the Welfare Department, asserted today Mayor Moore has backed him up against the efforts of politicians to override regulations for the House of Correction.

"I want to say that I resigned of my own volition," said Doctor Spencer, whose resignation becomes effective November 15.

"I am leaving with the best wishes of the administration. The Mayor has been wonderful to me, and I think the citizens should back up Mr. Moore, who is striving to change things for the better."

Doctor Spencer was loath to discuss a report of friction with Charles T. Preston, chief of the Bureau of Charities and Corrections. A verbal battle occurred between them after Doctor Spencer had taken steps to bar narcotics from the House of Correction. Chief Preston denied that drugs were being smuggled into the institution.

Accepting Better Position
"The real reason for my resignation," Doctor Spencer continued, "is that I am to become medical director of the Philadelphia health council and tuberculosis committee. That work will be more agreeable, because I will be concerned with children of the pre-school age, from one to seven years."

"Any friction that existed is a thing of the past and is not the real reason why I am getting out. There were politicians who made repeated efforts to get inmates out of the House of Correction before their terms expired. But that didn't influence my resignation."

Welfare Director Tustin also denied that friction had induced the resignation.

COLUMBUS DAY OBSERVED HERE

Italian Societies and Knights Have Separate Celebrations in Philadelphia

BIG RECEPTION TONIGHT

Columbus Day—the four hundred and twenty-eighth anniversary of the discovery of America—was celebrated today. The special exercises here were in charge of the Knights of Columbus and the Italian societies.

In spite of the fact that the day is a legal holiday throughout the country, the city are suspended. The banks and the local Stock Exchange were closed, but the courts were sitting and the postal service went on as usual. Both public and parochial schools were open.

Delegations from the Italian Federation, the Union e Fratellanza and the Humbert Legion placed a wreath on the Columbus monument on the Belmont Drive in Fairmount Park this morning. Addresses were made by C. C. A. Baldi, John M. Queroli, Emanuel E. H. Nardi and the Rev. T. Della Chioppa.

The Nazario Surolo Lodge, Independent Sons of Italy, and the Italian societies in the northeast section of the city paraded at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The Italians of West Philadelphia will celebrate this evening with ceremonies in St. Donato's Hall, Sixty-fifth and Callowhill streets.

Big Reception Tonight
This evening the Academy of Music will be the scene of the largest and most brilliant reception ever held by the Philadelphia Chapter of the Knights of Columbus. For weeks the twenty-five councils of the organization have been working on the decorations and program for this evening.

The program for this evening will be an interesting feature of the reception, will be led by Mrs. Elizabeth Virginia Becker and her father-in-law, Albert J. Becker, who is chairman of the Philadelphia chapter.

Next in line will be the vice chairman of the chapter, James C. Smith, and Mrs. Smith, Robert F. Hepburn, secretary of the chapter, will be accompanied by Mrs. Hepburn, Supreme Knight and Mrs. James A. Flaherty will be in the line.

The boxholders are as follows: Samuel Sackheim, M. J. McKeary, P. H. Kelly, John Dougherty, Daniel Wade, John Quinn, James J. Raney, James C. Smith, James A. McGuigan, F. M. Dursey, J. A. McDermott, John F. McLaughlin, James P. Fogarty, John B. Geraghty, John A. Hanratty, T. Reuben Hartley, M. J. Ryan, Ladies of San Domingo, Ladies of Commodore Barry Council, San Salvador Country Club, board of governors of K. of C. Hall and the following councils: Philadelphia, San Salvador, Commodore Barry, de Soto, San Domingo, Marquette, St. Lawrence, Brownson, Bishop Neuman, Isabella, West Philadelphia, Pinzino, Columbus, La Rabida and Charles Carroll.

Decorations Elaborate
The decorations will be the most lavish ever seen at a K. of C. reception. As the guests enter the vestibule they will be met by a bank of ferns and palms, and in the corridor will be hung baskets of blooming plants and cut flowers.

The rear of the stage will be richly adorned with clusters of electric lamps with vari-colored shades. Sprays of anemils will envelop them. On the platform at the rear of the stage will be large bouquets of flowers. Behind the stage seven columns will rise, each topped with baskets of fresh blooms.

Toward the front of the stage will be placed dozens of electric candleabra, surrounded by pedestals holding fresh cut flowers. Above the insignia of the order will blaze in colored electric bulbs.

The procession boxes will be decorated with palms, bay trees and fresh blooms, and the two orchestra will be hidden behind banks of greens.

Many supper parties in the downtown hotels and cafes have been arranged.

Another feature of the day was the opening of a nation-wide Knights of Columbus educational campaign against radical agitation. For ten years the Knights have conducted lecture courses against extreme socialism throughout the country, and this year will mark the beginning of their most intensive campaign. Prominent anti-socialist experts will tour the country and speak in more than 1000 cities where there are councils of the K. of C.
